

980 x 90 px

the barrister

The largest independent magazine for Barristers practising in the UK

Est. 1999

- Home
- A-Z Barristers Chambers
- Article Submission
- Selected Links
- Expert Witnesses
- Announcements
- Media Information
- Archive
- Personal Finance
- Events and Lectures
- Tenancy Vacancies
- Subscribe
- Book Reviews
- Videos

news

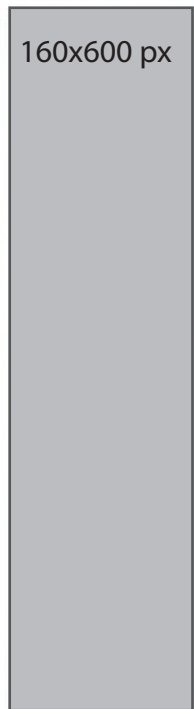

- Legal Services Commission Consultation
- Lorem ipsum dolor sit amet consectetur nomen tuum
- Law Reform Committee Web Survey. We are Seeking Your Views
- Ergo sum perpetua tua
- Duis quo mundanem et quis luadto urbe et orbe profituunum
- Law Reform Committee Web Survey. We are Seeking Your Views

services

- CPD Workshops
- Judicial Appointments
- Free Monthly Newsletter
- Charities & Appeal
- Press Releases
- Publications
- Latest Cases in England & Wales

Free Download 2009-10 LIFESTYLE Supplement e-Mag

Free Download 2009-10 FINANCE Supplement e-Mag

selected articles

- Legal issues in dementia care: the Nuffield Council's report
- A Unified Fraud Prosecution Office—Has a Case Been Made Out?
- Legal services reforms – some unresolved questions
- Rights and remedies
- Legal issues in dementia care: the Nuffield Council's report
- A Unified Fraud Prosecution Office—Has a Case Been Made Out?

comment and opinion

Legal issues in dementia care: the Nuffield Council's report

By Jill Peay, Professor of Law, London School of Economics

The Mental Capacity Act (MCA) sets out how a decision can be made if a person is not able to make that particular decision for themselves. It must, however, always be assumed that a person does have capacity to make a decision, until it is shown that they can't...

+ read more

Legal issues in dementia care: the Nuffield Council's report

By Jill Peay, Professor of Law, London School of Economics

The Mental Capacity Act (MCA) sets out how a decision can be made if a person is not able to make that particular decision for themselves. It must, however, always be assumed that a person does have capacity to make a decision, until it is shown that they can't...

+ read more

Legal issues in dementia care: the Nuffield Council's report

By Jill Peay, Professor of Law, London School of Economics

The Mental Capacity Act (MCA) sets out how a decision can be made if a person is not able to make that particular decision for themselves. It must, however, always be assumed that a person does have capacity to make a decision, until it is shown that they can't...

+ read more

Legal issues in dementia care: the Nuffield Council's report

By Jill Peay, Professor of Law, London School of Economics

The Mental Capacity Act (MCA) sets out how a decision can be made if a person is not able to make that particular decision for themselves. It must, however, always be assumed that a person does have capacity to make a decision, until it is shown that they can't...

+ read more

Legal issues in dementia care: the Nuffield Council's report

By Jill Peay, Professor of Law, London School of Economics

The Mental Capacity Act (MCA) sets out how a decision can be made if a person is not able to make that particular decision for themselves. It must, however, always be assumed that a person does have capacity to make a decision, until it is shown that they can't...

+ read more

Legal issues in dementia care: the Nuffield Council's report

By Jill Peay, Professor of Law, London School of Economics

The Mental Capacity Act (MCA) sets out how a decision can be made if a person is not able to make that particular decision for themselves. It must, however, always be assumed that a person does have capacity to make a decision, until it is shown that they can't...

+ read more

